Summer Reading Requirement

4th Graders, going into 5th grade

Hello Friends!

It is simple...Read, Read, Read

1. Read Old Yeller. Keep track of questions your had, lessons you have learned. What are the themes? Write these on a piece of paper to be turned in the first day of school.

2. Keep a log of books you read this summer, along with where you read.

Truth be told, my favorite place to read is standing at the end of the dock of a cottage we rent—In the water!! Then, when we get home, I stand in my pool to read.

Where is your favorite place?? A treehouse? A hammock? In the top bunk? I am curious about where you like to read! Write it on the log to be turned in the first day of school.

3. Make at least one book selection from the list I am sharing. Sometimes it is cool to look at book lists others suggest and challenge yourself to find them in the library. I want to know that you tried to find a book at the library at least once. Did you need the author or title? It is a great skill to develop.

That is it! Pretty simple, right??

Have fun. Can't wait to discuss our reading in September, or drop me an email if you want!
